IS FRIDAY, JANUARY 21, 2011

The FAWCO Target Water Project

In most countries, women are, in fact, the primary stakeholders in the water and sanitation sectors, and are the primary providers of water for domestic consumption. They are also responsible for health, hygiene, sanitation and other productive activities at the household level. Lack of access to water and sanitation directly affects women's health, education, employment, income and empowerment. The gendered dynamics of water and sanitation underscore the close inter-linkages between poverty, gender and sustainable development

FAWCO has a project to help improve access to safe drinking water. Help us support Wells for Clean Water by hosting a fundraiser, educating your club, or giving a water donation certificate to someone special in your life.

- ✓ You still have a day to send in your club's DG proposal

You have probably already heard the sad news that our dear

FAWCO Friend and past FAWCO President (2001-2003) Pam Dahlgren passed away this month. A Tribute to her can be found on The Foundation's home

Quilt Tickets!

This beautiful handmade quilt, designed and made by the women of FAWCO, will be raffled off at the FAWCO conference in Marrakech. Your club members, friends and family can now buy quilt tickets from their FAWCO Rep.

Reps, click here to download tickets and sell.. sell.. sell, the money raised will go towards The Foundation and its wonderful programs.

iGive for The Foundation

Shop online with Amazon, the Apple Store, Barns&Nobles and more (over 800 top retailers) at iGive.

iGive has given more than $5 million to causes registered on their website, and now The Foundation is one of those causes. There is no additional cost for you the shopper or The Foundation. Find out how to register and give to The Foundation, while you shop!

"Rock the Kasbah"

You won't want to miss

Midnight at the Oasis.

The Foundation Auction & Dinner at the FAWCO Conference. One of the highlights of the evening will be the Kasbah, where small treasures can be purchased and friends can be found.

If you are traveling during the upcoming holidays and find small items of interest that can be donated for the Kasbah's lucky dip, please remember The Foundation.

Contact Ann De Simoni, VP Communications concerning donations.
